DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 5, 8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nishiyama et al (US patent 4,392,269).

The patent to Nishiyama discloses the invention as is claimed. Nishiyama discloses an apparatus comprising a handle member (6) with a gripping portion (6a) at one end and an extension portion at the other. The extension portion extends (fig.2) into a channel in boss (5) of head member (3). Note figure 2 wherein it can be seen that some adjustability in the length of the extension member into channel is allowable. A scrubbing member (23) is selectively mounted to the head member. The scrubbing member has a main portion (26) from which a plurality of bristles (25) extend outwardly. The scrubbing member is adapted to scrub or contact any surface so desired, including skin of a user. A locking member (7) is operationally coupled to the head and around the extension portion for inhibiting movement of the extension portion with respect to the head member when actuated by a user. The locking member is threadably (4,8) coupled with the head member such that rotation of the locking member acts to reduce the diameter of the channel to frictionally engage the extension of the handle. Thus, by adjusting the depth the extension is inserted into the channel, some adjustment of the length of the handle member is enabled.

With respect to claim 1, terming the apparatus a “body scrubbing apparatus” does not distinguish from Nishiyama as such can be used in any manner so desired. Such at most relates to the intended use of the device and does not define any particular structure, at least none not disclosed by Nishiyama.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nishiyama et al (US patent 4,392,269) in view of Ancil (US patent 5,791,006).

The patent to Nishiyama discloses all of the above recited subject matter with the exception of the gripping portion having an arcuate portion and straight portion.

The patent to Ancil discloses a cleaning device wherein the handle includes a gripping portion (16) that has an arcuate portion (22).

It would have been obvious to one of skill in the art to curve the gripping portion of the handle of Nishiyama, as clearly suggested by Ancil, to provide a more comfortable handle. Use of arcuate gripping portions is well known.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6 and 7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claim 9 allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 14 November 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Nishiyama does not allow for adjustment of the effective length of the handle member. Such is not persuasive. As set forth above, the locking member of Nishiyama would allow for the handle extension to be selectively located in the channel, just as applicant's is. Nothing would prohibit such. Such would enable the distance between the gripping portion and the head to be selectively changed.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
